

ChatGPT

<https://chatgpt.com/>

PROMPT: “Write a donor appreciation email under 300 words to [mid level donors]. Thank them for [recent gift supporting food insecurities], highlight how their support made an impact (e.g. meals provided, families served), and encourage continued partnership. Use sincere, appreciative tone. If anything is unclear or you need additional details to improve your response, please ask me for clarification”

ChatGPT said:

Here’s a draft of your donor appreciation email, under 300 words and written for mid-level donors with a warm, sincere tone:

Subject: Your Gift is Feeding Hope 🍲💛

Dear [Donor’s First Name],

Thank you—truly—for your recent gift in support of fighting food insecurity. Because of your generosity, families in our community didn’t go to bed hungry.

Your support helped provide over [insert number] nutritious meals this month, serving [insert number] families who are facing real hardship. That’s not just food—it’s dignity, stability, and a reminder that they are not forgotten.

Mid-level donors like you play a vital role. Your giving bridges the gap between urgent need and lasting change. We’re seeing lives touched and hope restored—meal by meal, story by story—all because you said yes.

We’re honored to partner with you in this mission. As need continues to rise, your ongoing support will help us reach even more families with the nourishment and care they deserve.

With deepest gratitude,

[Your Name]

[Your Title or Organization Name]

[Contact Info or CTA: e.g., “Learn more about your impact →”]

Let me know if you'd like to include a family quote, add a donation CTA, or personalize it for a specific campaign.

You said:

PROMPT: lets change to make this slightly more heart tugging and make it sound like joyce meyers

ChatGPT said:

Absolutely—here’s a revised version of the email with a more heart-tugging, Joyce Meyer–inspired tone: sincere, uplifting, and faith-infused without being overly formal:

Subject: Look What God Did Through You 🙌💖

Dear [Donor’s First Name],

I just had to take a moment to thank you—really thank you—for your recent gift to help families battling food insecurity.

Because you chose to give, hungry bellies were filled. We were able to provide [insert number] hot, nourishing meals and serve [insert number] families who didn’t know where their next meal was coming from. That’s not just food—that’s hope showing up at the door.

It’s easy to feel overwhelmed by the need in the world... but friend, you didn’t turn away. You stepped in with compassion, and heaven took notice.

Every time you give, you remind someone they’re seen, loved, and not forgotten. That kind of love is powerful. It reaches deeper than hunger—it speaks to the soul.

We’re believing for even greater impact ahead, and I’d love for you to keep walking with us. Together, we are making a difference—one meal, one family, one heart at a time.

Grateful beyond words,

[Your Name]

[Your Title or Organization Name]

[Contact Info or CTA: e.g., “See more stories of impact →”]

Let me know if you'd like to add a scripture reference, a photo-based testimony, or a subtle ask for recurring giving.

You said:

PROMPT: take the above email from the tone of joyce meyers, and acting as an expert copywriter in marketing, adjust so this email gets the maximum attention and would stop the scroll for the user so they read it in their inbox and take action.

ChatGPT said:

Absolutely. Below is a version of your donor appreciation email with a Joyce Meyer-inspired voice, copywriting strategy for scroll-stopping impact, and conversion-focused formatting. It balances heartfelt gratitude with a clear invitation to stay engaged—all while grabbing attention in a crowded inbox.

Subject: You didn't just give... you answered a prayer. 🙏

Preview Text: Your recent gift didn't just feed families—it reminded them God still sees them.

Dear [Donor's First Name],

Let me just say this plainly:

Because of you, a mama laid her head on her pillow last night with peace in her heart... knowing her babies went to bed with full bellies.

You didn't just give a donation.

You brought hope. You reminded someone that God has not forgotten them.

Thanks to your recent gift, we were able to provide over [X hot meals] to [X families] who were praying for a miracle. And guess what? You were part of the answer.

I believe God uses people to meet people—and that's exactly what you did.

And can I tell you something else?

We're just getting started.

There are more families waiting. More prayers rising. And we'd be honored to keep changing lives together.

Will you stay with us as a partner in this mission?

[Yes, I want to keep helping →]

From the bottom of our hearts—thank you. You are making Kingdom impact in the most beautiful way.

With deep gratitude and faith,

[Your Name]

[Your Title / Organization]